MEMORANDUM FOR: Director of Training

THROUGH : C/FTD

SUBJECT : Course Report, Clandestine Operations Orientation
for DDS&T

25X1A 1. This was a one week, full-time course. The first two days of the class were held in Room 227, Chamber of Commerce Building, and the last three days at the [REDACTED].

2. This course is presented twice a year. In the spring it's an integral part of the DDS&T Career Development Course which lasts five months. In the fall it is given for DDS&T members who have not taken and will not take the Career Development Course.

Course Content

25X1A 3. The schedule was not changed from that of the previous running, based on the recommendations contained in the last course report prepared by [REDACTED] the former course manager.

The Student Body

4. Fifteen students attended this course. Of these, four were from OSI, one from OTS, six from NPIC, three from Imagery Analysis, and one from the Office of Weapons Intelligence.

Student Reaction

5. In an oral critique of the course the students, with one exception, considered the course useful and stated it would be of help in their work. While some suggestions were made based on individual preferences and background, one subject agreed upon by the majority was that the films "Ring of Treason" and "Persona non Grata" be eliminated in the future. Many of the students had seen one or both of these films before.

Comments

6. This course was originally designed to give DDS&T analysts an idea of the complexity and difficulty of clandestine collection, in order to assist them in more realistic requirements, and to help them understand delays in responses thereto. It is doubtful that NPIC personnel would profit from this course as much as such analysts. In the future the DDS&T training officers will be required to canvass their directorates for eligible students one month before the course is offered to give us time to select students carefully.
